Degree Planning

As part of the dual degrees application, students are required to submit a course plan. Degree planning tools are available online:

<http://www2.bus.umich.edu/MyiMpact/academics/degree-requirements>

Thorough familiarity and understanding of the regulations contained in both programs' Bulletins are essential for sound planning. Students will work with Academic Advisors in both degree programs to create a course plan that meets requirements.

Home School/Registration

The home school determines academic and registration policies. Each semester, students must be enrolled for all classes under their home school (regardless of the courses taken).

Students pursuing the following dual degrees are required to maintain the Ross School of Business as the home school:

- College of Engineering
- College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

Students pursuing the following dual degrees may select either the Ross School of Business or their partner school as their home school, and should discuss this decision with their Academic Advisors:

- Penny W. Stamps School of Art & Design
- School of Information
- School of Kinesiology Sport Management Program
- School of Music, Theatre, & Dance

Degree Completion

Students are responsible for scheduling meetings with Academic Advisors in both programs to track progress toward graduation. Students must apply for graduation from each degree program, along with completing any other required documents.

Degrees must be awarded simultaneously. If any degree requirement is incomplete for either degree, neither degree will be awarded. Completion of both degree requirements results in two different degree citations on the transcript and in two separate diplomas.
